

MAHATMA GANDHI INSTITUTE

Recruitment of International Academics (2014-2016)

The Mahatma Gandhi Institute was set up in 1970 as a joint venture between the Government of Mauritius and India as a centre of studies of Indian Culture and Traditions and to promote education and culture generally.

Its mission is, inter alia, to: continue providing a sound academic and cultural base for the preservation and promotion of Indian cultural traditions and heritage; continue strengthening the administrative and academic capacity to enhance teaching, learning and research at tertiary level in the fields of Indian Studies, Mauritian and Area Studies, Chinese Studies, Performing Arts and Fine Arts; and ensure good governance and quality education at all levels.

In so doing, the MGI envisions to be a leading, multifaceted educational and cultural institution offering a full range of quality and holistic education both at secondary and tertiary levels with special emphasis on Indian Culture and Arts, and committed to becoming a full-fledged degree awarding body.

It has today developed into tertiary institutions with five Schools namely:
